Prove agents played up the fight as for the Western Ponnsylvania light-for the Western Pennsylvania lightweigh: 'championship and a stepping stone for Donnelly. Before the fight Ray said the Uniontown Johnny would find him the hardest stone to step over he had ever met. The Smoky City lad, who has always created more or less an impression of a boxer who allows his opponent to carry the battle to him, waded in at the beginning and took every round but the third. In this Donnelly reached the climax of his exertions and earned the decision for the frame.

Ray old some clever boxing himself for the "edification" of coke region critics. He was pronounced the eleverest boxer who ever graced the arena on the West Side. Facing Donnelly, who is fully three inches taller, and who had him outwelghed. Ray struck the Uniontown boy almost at will with his left. Donnelly never flinched and although he got some powerful blows on the head he was not dropped.

The fight was tormed a fitting climax for the shows put on here by Duke Barry. The matchmaker has brought some classy fighters to the city, and had given the fans only a few Fly-matched bouts.
